

Construction Update: Bearspaw South Feeder Main Repair

October 29, 2024

The City of Calgary is making progress on the third phase of repairs to the Bearspaw South Feeder Main.

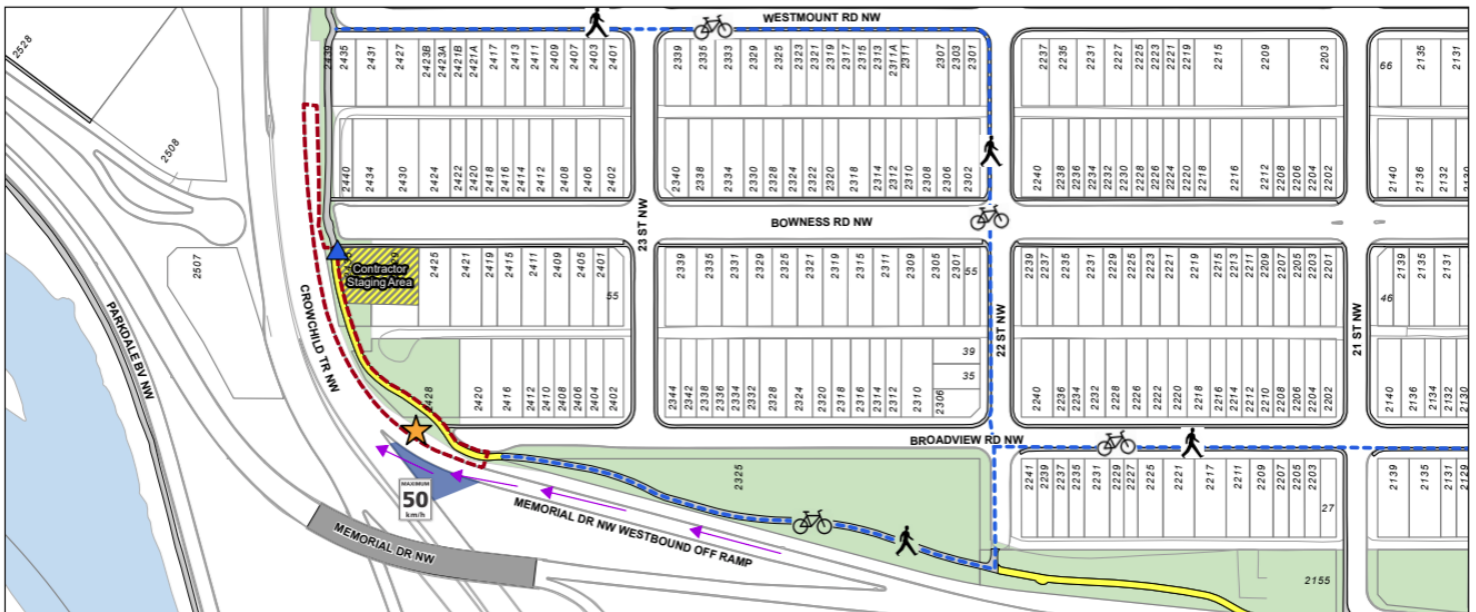

These repairs are taking place in three locations: repair site one is located on Parkdale Blvd N.W. between 26 St N.W. and 27 St N.W., repair site two is located on the Memorial Dr westbound off-ramp that connects to Crowchild Trail northbound, and repair site three is located at Brownsea Dr N.W. at the bottom of the Bev Longstaff Pedestrian Bridge ramp. These repairs are much smaller in scope and will not require city-wide water restrictions because these sections can be isolated while keeping the feeder main running.

NEW - Construction Update

Crews continue to progress as planned at all three repair sites.

As part of the repair work on Site 2, crews will temporarily remove two additional sections of the sound barrier just north of the current site on Thursday, Oct 31 and will proceed to make a small excavation to expose the pipe to proceed with the planned repair. This will result in some additional traffic noise to nearby homes. This sound barrier will be reinstalled once repairs are complete. (See map below.)
